President and Sales Director at GrandView of Roxborough earn Certified Senior Advisor (CSA) designation

Denver, Colorado - February 5, 2009 - Chad Barnard, President, and Steve Garrison, Sales Director of GrandView of Roxborough Life Services Retirement Community have both earned the Certified Senior Advisor (CSA) designation from the Society of Certified Senior Advisors (SCSA).

SCSA requirements include education focusing on the interaction between key health, social, and financial factors which are so very important to today's seniors. CSA accredited professionals can advise clients on important age-related planning for their future. The CSA credential is a valuable resource for those thinking about their retirement years.

According to the SCSA, "CSAs have learned how incredibly gratifying it is to help seniors achieve their goals, and the seniors they've worked with have learned how important it is to work with someone who truly understands their age-related circumstances.

"The credit for obtaining the CSA designation really belongs to my Dad," comments Garrison. "I wanted to learn about all the options available to assist him now in his retirement years, so he can enjoy a comfortable life and preserve his assets."

"Today, I find it very fulfilling to be able to assist my Dad as well as other people approaching retirement helping them to "age in place with comfort and the knowledge that they can enjoy a new lifestyle," explains Garrison.

Both Garrison and Barnard will be using their CSA designation to help seniors who choose to live at GrandView of Roxborough. GrandView is the first Life Services Retirement Community in Colorado.
